

Penny Manager Asks Consent To Distribute Handbills In Torrance

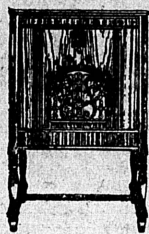

City Council was requested Tuesday evening to amend the existing anti-handbill ordinance to permit the distribution of all manner of handbills, catalogs, etc., throughout Torrance, by Frank Buffington, manager of the J. C. Penny Company store. The petition was signed by a few other chain store managers and independent merchants, and proposed that local stores be permitted to distribute dodgers by paying a license fee of $1, while out-of-town business houses would be charged $25 a day license. The matter was referred to the ordinance committee. The courts have repeatedly held that such discriminatory laws are unconstitutional, and should the City Council adopt the proposed amendments, it would virtually mean the repeal of the present ordinance, and the littering of lawns and porches with waste paper, a nuisance which was eliminated by the present ordinance.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Buffington were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. Buffington, in Los Angeles, Thanksgiving Day.

Mrs. W. A. Tyra of Norwalk was a guest of Mrs. Paul Kasper over the week-end.
